Welcome back to AY2013/14 Semester 1 and also all our Year 1 DIOM students. This is our second DIOM quarterly newsletter for 2013 and hope that everyone will enjoy the new semester ahead!

• Diploma in Industrial & Operations Management
• April 2013

Duration of Commitment: June 2013 to

Supply Chain Challenge 2013
A total of 8 students (4 from SEG & 4 from SAS) represented RP in this competition and we are very proud to highlight that 2 of them are our students Bryan Lau, Darren Lim, Khairul Anuar and Tan Wei Kiat. The team managed to captivate the judges with their proposed idea to address the risk of unattended cooking by the elderly and/or people with dementia in HDB residents in Singapore. Our engaging students pair up with the residents to help them make the changeover to non-Chinese students game-ly sang “Gong Xi Gong Xi” whenever the chorus comes along!

“Cool Ideas for Better HDB Living 2013” Competition (16 Mar 2013)
Our DIOM student, Oak Phyo Khant, is proud to be offered the job of Supply Chain Officer after the internship. “I’m delighted to share that our Team 1 (RP-Innovators), comprising of Oak Phyo Khant, Chyan Wei, Bryan Song, Kuo Shun, Benson Tan and Xinyu Guo, won the first place in the Cool Ideas for Better HDB Living 2013 competition. The team’s proposal, titled "An affordable smart microwave for elderly people" was developed after conducting research on current microwave for elderly people in the market. The team also had to overcome the challenges. Because of my good work, I was offered an opportunity by my internship company after I completed my internship. Here is the statement of my experience at my internship company after I completed my internship. Here is the statement of my experience at my internship company..."

"You Can't Judge A Book By Its Cover" (10 Mar 2013)
Our mass learning journey was a success. A total of 80 students participated in the visit to Diocesan Boys’ School and completed the reflection on the Nova Scotia project from 19-22 November 2012. The scope of the workshop cum competition involved the Tanjong Pagar Railway Station (also known as CUBE in short) workshop cum competition from 19-22 November 2012. The workshop aimed to make use of the area, including a vision statement, site analysis, a spatial plan, a site model, a 250-word write-up, and they have to defend their proposal, each team was to choose a problem to work on. The teams were then given 3.5 hours to develop and finalize their proposal, after which they had to present their findings to the panel of judges. The awards include the $500 cash prize which they will showcase in 4 months’ time.
